

KBBF presents an OCCUPY SONOMA COUNTY
teach-in

Urban Farming & Backyard Sustainability

with Jonathan
Bravo of

While healthy food can be prohibitively expensive, unhealthy food costs us even more in the long term with health costs and shorter lives. There is an answer to this dilemma: learn how to grow organic foods in limited spaces year-round in healthy soils free from petrochemicals. Pay-What-You-Can Plant Sale & Free Seed Exchange (bring your extra seeds to share). Everyone is welcome to this free event.

Mon, March 26 at 7PM

Carpenters' Union Hall,
1706 Corby Ave, Santa Rosa 95407
occupysonomacounty.org • 877-6650

*Free /
Donations
Requested*

Presenter Jonathan Bravo, a field expert at LandPaths and Bayer Farm, has been dedicated to education and community action where he can express part of his life philosophy, 'what you seed you will harvest.'

KBBF presents an OCCUPY SONOMA COUNTY
teach-in

Urban Farming & Backyard Sustainability

with Jonathan
Bravo of

While healthy food can be prohibitively expensive, unhealthy food costs us even more in the long term with health costs and shorter lives. There is an answer to this dilemma: learn how to grow organic foods in limited spaces year-round in healthy soils free from petrochemicals. Pay-What-You-Can Plant Sale & Free Seed Exchange (bring your extra seeds to share). Everyone is welcome to this free event.

Mon, March 26 at 7PM

Carpenters' Union Hall,
1706 Corby Ave, Santa Rosa 95407
occupysonomacounty.org • 877-6650

*Free /
Donations
Requested*

Presenter Jonathan Bravo, a field expert at LandPaths and Bayer Farm, has been dedicated to education and community action where he can express part of his life philosophy, 'what you seed you will harvest.'